the remarkable true story of america's first women astronauts lifts the curtain on the moment when neil armstrong's one small step for man expanded to encompass the talent, ambition, and perseverance of america's first female astronaut. margot lee shetterly, bestselling author of Hidden Figures, strap yourself in for a thrilling ride with genuine american heroes: six women who proved you don't need the right plumbing to have the right stuff. lynn sherr, author of Sally Ride: America's First Woman in Space, when nasa sent astronauts to the moon in the 1960s and 1970s, the agency excluded women from the corps, arguing that only military test pilots—a group then made up exclusively of men—had the right stuff. it was an era in which women were steered away from jobs in science and deemed too fragile for space flight. eventually, though, nasa relented and opened the application process to everyone, regardless of race or gender. from a 1977 candidate pool of 8,000, six elite women were selected: sally ride, judy resnik, anna fisher, kathy sullivan, shannon lucid, and rhea seddon. in The Six, acclaimed journalist loren grush shows these brilliant and courageous women enduring claustrophobic and sometimes deeply sexist media attention, undergoing rigorous survival training, and preparing for years to take multi-million-dollar payloads into orbit. together, the six helped build the tools that made the space program run. one of the group, judy resnik, sacrificed her life when the space shuttle challenger exploded at 46,000 feet. everyone knows of sally ride's history-making first space ride, but each of the six would make their mark.

stemming from an interdisciplinary conference sponsored by culture club the cultural studies scholars association that included scholars from various disciplines and from around the world this volume collects the work of graduate students and junior faculty which all examine the meaning of cultural scholarship in an ever changing and increasingly global milieu these voices which often become marginalized and go unheard represent what we see as the futures of interdisciplinary academic work in the humanities the conference and this book are opportunities for scholars of diverse backgrounds and disciplines to come together and engage in a real dialogue with one another bringing disparate thoughts on politics film television history policy and literature together counters the pressures pushing individuals to take political religious scholarly and ideological sides through the efforts represented here we gain a distanced yet engaged view on the many threads that bind us together and the forces that seek to separate us looking at this volume the reader encounters many different approaches from critical analysis of individual texts to autoethnography the contributors and compilers of this book do not place these in separate sections or in any hierarchy but rather wish that all of these appear on an equally vital level that displays the ways in which each of the subjects and approaches might open up a piece of culture in a way that draws attention to the connections between them all how do stories of particular events turn into global myths while others fade away what becomes known and seen as a global iconic event in stories without borders julia sonnevend considers the ways in which we recount and remember news stories of historic significance focusing on journalists covering the fall of the berlin wall and on subsequent retellings of the event in a variety of ways from legoland reenactments to slabs of the berlin wall installed in global cities sonnevend discusses how certain events become built up so that people in many parts of the world remember them for long periods of time she argues that five dimensions determine the viability and longevity of international news events first a foundational narrative must be established with certain preconditions next the established narrative becomes universalized and a mythical message developed this message is then condensed and encapsulated in a simple phrase a short narrative and a recognizable visual scene counter narratives emerge that reinterpret events and in turn facilitate their diffusion across multiple media platforms and changing social and political contexts sonnevend examines these five elements through the developments of november 9 1989 what came to be known as the fall of the berlin wall stories without borders concludes with a discussion of how global iconic events have an enduring effect on individuals and societies pointing out that after common currencies military alliances and international courts have failed stories may be all that we have to bring hope and unity the persistence of history examines how the moving image has completely altered traditional modes of historical thought and representation exploring a range of film and video texts from the ten commandments to the rodney king video from the projected work of documentarian errol morris to oliver stone s jfk and spielberg s schindler s list the volume questions the appropriate forms of media for making the incoherence and fragmentation of contemporary history intelligible
