example in this ebook you often hear people talking of the president of our country doubtless most of you know him by name some of you may have seen him you also know that once in every four years we have an election day when papa votes for the man whom he thinks best for president then the one who gets the most votes becomes our president for four years if this man makes a good president he is sometimes chosen again for another four years or term as we call it but if he has not pleased the people they choose some one else anybody else next election day we never know who will be our next president until he is elected one term he is a man from one part of the country the next term he may be one from a far distant part in our country we think that this way is best it is not so in every country in some countries instead of a president there is a king who expects to be king as long as he lives at his death his son becomes the king if the king happens to be a good one it is well for the country and for the people but if he chances to be a wicked cruel one the poor people have a sorry time as long as he lives when sunday comes john goes with his mamma and papa to the methodist church perhaps mary goes with her parents to the baptist gretchen may prefer to go to the lutheran church and margaret to the roman catholic in our country we think this quite right we like to see people going to the church that helps them most as it costs much money to build churches and pay the preachers people must give money or there can be no churches john may want to give his pennies to the methodist church or sunday school mary would rather give hers to the baptist gretchen s money is given to the lutheran and margaret s to the roman catholic in our country we think this too quite right no one forces us to give money to any church when we have any to give we may do with it as we choose neither is this true in all countries in some lands where there are kings instead of presidents the kings have sometimes said that all the people must go to a certain church and that they must pay that church money some of the kings have forbidden the people to have any other churches sometimes there have been people who loved another church which they were unwilling to give up sometimes there have been kings who have put these people in prison and done other harsh things in trying to force them to worship god according to the king s will we shall learn of some unhappy people who lived in a country ruled at times by just such hard hearted kings when we know of some of the troubles and great hardships through which they passed in trying to pray to god and serve him as they thought right we shall surely love them and always remember their noble deeds these people lived far across the reprint of the original first published in 1866 the book is a work of non fiction the book is a historical analysis of the evolution of a uniquely american constitutionalism that began with the original english royal charters for the exploration and exploitation of north america when the u s constitution was written in

1787 the accepted conception of a constitution was that of the british constitution upon which the colonists had relied in asserting their rights with respect to the imperium comprised of ancient documents parliamentary enactments administrative regulations judicial pronouncements and established custom of equal significance the laws comprising the constitution did not differ from other statutes and as a consequence there was no law endowed with greater sanctity than other legislative enactments in framing the revolutionary state constitutions following the retreat of the crown governments in the colonies as well as the later federal constitution the revolutionaries fundamentally reconceived a constitution as being the single authoritative source of fundamental law that was superior to all other statutes regulations and judicial decisions that was ratified by the states and that was subject to revision only through a formal amendment process this new constitutional conception has been hailed as the great innovation of the revolutionary period and deservedly so this american constitutionalism had its origins in the now largely overlooked royal charters for the exploration of north america beginning with the charter granted to sir humphrey gilbert by elizabeth i in 1578 the book follows the development of this constitutional tradition from the early charters of the virginia companies and the covenants entered of the new england colonies through the proprietary charters of the middle atlantic colonies on the basis of those foundational documents the colonists fashioned governments that came to be comprised not only of an executive but an elected legislature and a judiciary in those foundational documents and in the acts of the colonial legislatures the settlers sought to harmonize their aspirations for just institutions and individual rights with the exigencies and imperatives of an alien and often hostile environment when the colonies faced the withdrawal of the crown governments in 1775 they drew on their experience which they formalized in written constitutions this uniquely american constitutional tradition of the charters covenants and state constitutions was the foundation of the federal constitution and of the process by which the constitution was written and ratified a decade later
