This volume presents recent developments in the area of Lévy type processes and more general stochastic processes that behave locally like a Lévy process. Although written in a survey style, quite a few results are extensions of known theorems and others are completely new. The focus is on the symbol of a Lévy type process, a non-random function which is a counterpart of the characteristic exponent of a Lévy process. The class of stochastic processes which can be associated with a symbol is characterized. Various schemes constructing a stochastic process from a given symbol are discussed, and it is shown how one can use the symbol in order to describe the sample path properties of the underlying process. Lastly, the symbol is used to approximate and simulate Lévy type processes. This is the third volume in a subseries of the lecture notes in mathematics called Lévy Matters. Each volume describes a number of important topics in the theory or applications of Lévy processes and pays tribute to the state of the art of this rapidly evolving subject with special emphasis on the non-Brownian world.

The third edition of this bestselling book introduces readers to anthropology and the world around it by connecting important concepts to current global issues. A question-based approach encourages readers to understand specific issues in a broader cross-cultural context while building an appreciation for anthropology's role in developing global citizenship. This edition has been updated and revised throughout, including discussion of technology, design, anthropology, and the effects of social media on cultural change, as well as two new chapters: one on global responsibility for refugees and the other on human trafficking as a form of modern-day slavery. These updates make the text particularly relevant.

This book engages with the concerns the rising phenomenon of arbitrations between private and public actors raises for principles of constitutional law, including democracy, the rule of law, and the protection of fundamental rights. It analyses how party-appointed one-off arbitral tribunals determine the delineation of private rights and public interests within a transnational legal environment and provides a framework that aligns this activity with constitutional values. Featuring 20 chapters dealing with almost 40 jurisdictions from different corners of the world, the book examines how domestic legal systems and legal practice approach the involvement of public entities as parties to arbitration agreements and arbitration proceedings, to what extent the constitutional legal frameworks involved problematize private public arbitration as a constitutional concern, and how different domestic legal systems ensure that private public arbitration conforms to and avoids undermining the public interest. The chapters analyse inter alia whether the governing domestic law treats private public arbitration differently from commercial arbitration between private parties, to what extent domestic law permits such arbitrations, what regulatory frameworks domestic law sets up, and what control mechanisms domestic law establishes in order to ensure that the public interest is safeguarded when public entities agree to have disputes resolved through arbitration rather than in domestic courts
