the first book to summarize the burgeoning research literature on the behavioural ecology of the dog it presents a new ecological approach to the understanding of dog behaviour and highlights directions for future research providing links to human and primate behaviour research it will appeal to anyone interested in behavioural ecology warrior culture has long been an important facet of plains indian life for kiowa indians military societies have special significance they serve not only to honor veterans and celebrate and publicize martial achievements but also to foster strong role models for younger tribal members to this day these societies serve to maintain traditional kiowa values culture and ethnic identity previous scholarship has offered only glimpses of kiowa military societies william c meadows now provides a detailed account of the ritual structures ceremonial composition and historical development of each society rabbits mountain sheep horses headdresses black legs skunkberry unafraid of death scout dogs kiowa bone strikers and omaha as well as past and present women s groups two dozen illustrations depict personages and ceremonies and an appendix provides membership rosters from the late 1800s the most comprehensive description ever published on Kiowa military societies this work is unmatched by previous studies in its level of detail and depth of scholarship it demonstrates the evolution of these groups within the larger context of American Indian history and anthropology while documenting and preserving tribal traditions this book is the most comprehensive and authoritative reference ever published on the wide range of martial arts disciplines practiced in cultures around the world ABC-CLIO's martial arts of the world an encyclopedia of history and innovation is the most authoritative reference ever published on combat disciplines from around the world and across history coverage includes Shaolin monks jousting knights Roman gladiators westerner gunfighters samurai warriors and heavyweight boxers these iconic figures and many more are featured in this title as well as representatives of less well known but no less fascinating systems all vividly characterized by expert contributors from around the world who are themselves martial arts practitioners martial arts of the world comprises 120 entries in two volumes the first volume is organized geographically to explore the historic development of martial arts styles in Asia Africa Europe and the Americas the second volume looks at martial arts thematically with coverage of belief systems modern martial arts competitions and a wide range of such topics as folklore women in martial arts martial arts and the military and martial arts and the media

while previous studies of dogs in human history have focused on how people have changed the species through domestication this volume offers a rich archaeological portrait of the human-canine bond contributors investigate the ways people have viewed and valued dogs in different cultures around the world and across the ages despite increasing legal recognition of animal rights policy making remains inconsistent and civil society's role in shaping governance is underexplored applying extensive research and interviews with key animal welfare organisations this book examines the challenges progress and future prospects of civil society activism this is the first book to collate and synthesize the recent burgeoning primary research literature on dog behaviour evolution and cognition the author presents a new ecological approach to the understanding of dog behaviour demonstrating how dogs can be the subject of rigorous and productive scientific study without the need to confine them to a laboratory environment this second fully updated edition of dog behaviour evolution and cognition starts with an overview of the conceptual and methodological issues associated with the study of the dog followed by a brief description of their role in human society an evolutionary perspective is then introduced with a summary of current research into the process of domestication the central part of the book is devoted to issues relating to the cognitive aspects of behaviour which have received particular attention in recent years from both psychologists and ethologists the book's final chapters introduce the reader to many novel approaches to dog behaviour set in the context of behavioural development and genetics this second edition recognises and discusses the fact that dogs are increasingly being used as model organisms for studying aspects of human biology such as genetic diseases and ageing specific attention is also given in this edition to attachment behaviour which emerges between humans and dogs the importance of inter specific communication in the success of dogs in human communities and the broad aspects of social cognition and how this may contribute to human dog cooperation directions for future research are highlighted throughout the text which also incorporates links to human and primate research by drawing on homologies and analogies in both evolution and behaviour the book will therefore be of relevance and use to anyone with an interest in behavioural ecology including graduate students of animal behaviour and cognition as well as a more general audience of dog enthusiasts biologists psychologists veterinarians and sociologists hidatsa social and ceremonial organization a study of an important horticultural plains indian tribe synthesizes the rich material alfred w bowers recorded in the early 1930s from the last generation of hidatsas who lived in the historic village of like a fishhook this documentary record of their nineteenth century lifeways is now a classic in american ethnography the book is distinguished for its presentation of extensive personal and ritual narratives that allow hidatsa elders to articulate directly their conceptions of traditional culture it combines archeological and ethnographic approaches to reconstruct a hidatsa culture history that is shaped by a concern for cultural detail stemming from the american ethnographic tradition of franz boas at the same time its concern for the understanding of social structure reflects the influence of the british structural functional approach of a r radcliffe brown the most comprehensive account ever published on the hidatsas it is of enduring value and interest the authors aim to show that traditional blackfoot ceremonies provide a specific framework for decision making that can be used as a model for present day health service delivery and offer other potential applications of the model in decision making and mediation processes

hidatsa social and ceremonial organization a study of an important horticultural plains indian tribe synthesizes the rich material alfred w bowers recorded in the early 1930s from the last generation of hidatsas who lived in the historic village of like a fishhook this documentary record of their nineteenth century lifeways is now a classic in american ethnography the book is distinguished for its presentation of extensive personal and ritual narratives that allow hidatsa elders to articulate directly their conceptions of traditional culture it combines archeological and ethnographic approaches to reconstruct a hidatsa culture history that is shaped by a concern for cultural detail stemming from the american ethnographic tradition of franz boas at the same time its concern for the understanding of social structure reflects the influence of the british structural functional approach of a r radcliffe brown the most comprehensive account ever published on the hidatsas it is of enduring value and interest this book explores the history and nature of our dependency on other animals and the implications of this for human and animal health writing from an historical and sociological perspective joanna swabe s work discusses such issues as animal domestication the consequences of human exploitation of other animals including links between human and animal disease the rise of a veterinary regime designed to protect humans and animals alike implications of intensive farming practices pet keeping and recent biotechnological developments this account spans a period of some ten thousand years and raises important questions about the increasing intensification of animal use for both animal and human health the book presents an account of the ohio middle woodland period embankment earthworks ca 100 b c to a d 400 that is radically different from the prevailing theory byers critically addresses all the arguments and characterizations that make up the current treatment of the embankment earthworks and then presents an alternative interpretation this unconventional view hinges on two basic social characterizations the complementary heterarchical community model and the cult sodality heterarchy model byers posits that these two models interact to characterize the ohio middle woodland period settlement pattern the community was constituted by autonomous social formations clans based on kinship and sodalities based on companionship the individual communities of the region each have their clan components dispersed within a fairly well defined zone while the sodality components of the same set of region wide communities ally with each other and build and operate the embankment earthworks this dichotomy is possible only because the clans and sodalities respect each other as relatively autonomous the affairs of the clans focusing on domestic and family matters remain outside the concerns of the sodalities and the affairs of the sodalities focusing on world renewal and sacred games remain outside the concerns of the clans therefore two models are required to understand the embankment earthworks and no individual earthwork can be identified with any particular community this radical interpretation grounded in empirical archaeological data as well as the in depth overview of the current theory of the ohio middle woodland period make this book a critically important addition to the perspective of scholars of north american archaeology and scholars grappling with prehistoric social systems
