Jena Nardella cofounder of Blood Water and one of Christianity Today's 33 Under 33 shares a captivatingly honest Publishers Weekly account of how her passion for saving the world grew into a humbler long term calling of loving the world in all its brokenness in this beautifully written memoir ten years ago. Jena Lee Nardella was a fresh out of college twenty something with the lofty goal of truly changing the world armed with a diploma a thousand dollars and a dream to build one thousand wells in africa she joined forces with grammy award winning band jars of clay to found blood water and begin her mission jena's dream for her nonprofit turned that initial 1 into 20 and then 100 and today into more than 25 million working throughout eleven countries in africa blood water has provided healthcare for over 62 000 people in hiv affected areas and has partnered with communities to provide clean water for more than one million people in africa but along the way she faced many harsh realities that have tested her faith encountered corruption and brokenness that nearly destroyed everything she'd fought for and learned that wishful thinking will not get you very far jena discovered true change comes only when you stop trying to save the world and allow yourself to love it even when it breaks your heart with a fresh intelligent and winsome voice jena lee nardella weaves an evocative personal narrative filled with honest and hard won lessons that demonstrate the amazing things that can happen when you fight for your dreams this is the best kind of memoir there is a beautiful calm clarity that drew me in and held me until the end georgia blain when ben is a baby rachel puts his behavioural quirks down to eccentricity he likes to count letterboxes he hates to get his hands dirty loud noises make him anxious but as ben grows and his quirks become more pronounced it becomes clear there is something else going on when he is diagnosed with autism rachel must reconsider everything she thought she knew about parenting about ben and about how best to mother him reaching one thousand charts her quest to understand autism and to build a new kind of relationship with her son along the way she explores her own childhood discovering unexpected links between ben's experiences and her own before she can presume to tell ben's story she realises she must face difficult questions questions about intimacy trust and what it means for a mother to write about her child exquisitely written this is a thought provoking reflection on family and understanding and a tender love letter from a mother to her son deeply touching but never sentimental this remarkable book is more than a story of one boy and his mother it's a thoughtful meditation on the intricate workings of the human mind and heart toni jordan he'll grow out of it my friends told me he's so intelligent my family said your parents are mathematicians people reminded me what did you expect what did i expect we expect many things of our children most of the time we are only aware of these expectations when something happens to make it impossible for them to be fulfilled when ben is a baby rachel puts his quirks down to eccentricity he likes to count letterboxes he hates to get his hands dirty loud noises make him anxious but as ben grows and his behaviour becomes more pronounced it becomes clear there is something else going on when he is diagnosed with autism rachel must reconsider everything she thought she knew about parenting about ben and about how best to mother him reaching one thousand charts her quest to understand autism and to build a new kind of relationship with her son along the way she explores her own childhood discovering unexpected links between ben's experiences and her own before she can presume to tell ben's story she realises she must face difficult highlighting american cultural and political contexts this book provides an in depth assessment of the breadth and magnitude of the united states errors in its response to the covid 19 pandemic an unmitigated disaster chronicles and explains the u s response to the covid 19 pandemic emergency management expert robert o schneider considers the quality of u s pandemic planning and preparedness the quality and effectiveness of national state and local response efforts and the performance of national leaders during this historic public health crisis the book culminates in an assessment of how a predictable public health threat became an unprecedented health economic and security disaster schneider convincingly shows that conscious decisions were made by governmental authorities beginning with the president to ignore expert information and security intelligence in pursuit of other objectives in other words schneider argues if the u s was ill prepared for or slow to respond to the crisis it was because its leaders consciously chose to be ill prepared or slow to respond readers will be fascinated by this behind the scenes exposé of a pandemic year our world faces threats on many fronts terrorism environmental and natural disasters and pandemics to name just a few in light of these growing dangers we must ask is the total annihilation of the human race inevitable or can we be saved with a breadth and depth of knowledge that serves as a foundation to his proposals along with almost forty years of research saving humanity addresses these questions and assures readers that hope for human survival and happiness still exists but only if we unite under a common purpose chinese scholar and scientist jiaqi hu proposes that humanity won t be wiped out by war or nuclear weapons famine or climate change instead the chief culprit raging against our survival is technology if technology continues to grow and develop human beings could vanish from the earth in less than two or three hundred years hu s solution to this problem will challenge and inspire readers as they realize that the future of humanity rests in our hands now devoting all of his time to his mission of spreading this message of hope and urgency jiaqi hu is reaching out to leaders and people of influence who can be the giants to lead the charge of saving humanity please read and share spreading the word and raising up giants that market forces drive the news is not news whether a story appears in print on television or on the internet depends on who is interested its value to advertisers the costs of assembling the details and competitors products but in all the news that s fit to sell economist james hamilton shows just how this happens furthermore many complaints about journalism media bias soft news and pundits as celebrities arise from the impact of this economic logic on news judgments this is the first book to develop an economic theory of news analyze evidence across a wide range of media markets on how incentives affect news content and offer policy conclusions media bias for instance was long a staple of the news hamilton s analysis of newspapers from 1870 to 1900 reveals how nonpartisan reporting became the norm a hundred years later some partisan elements reemerged as for example evening news broadcasts tried to retain young female viewers with stories aimed at their democratic political interests examination of story selection on the network evening news programs from 1969 to 1998 shows how cable competition deregulation and ownership changes encouraged a shift from hard news about politics toward more soft news about entertainers hamilton concludes by calling for lower costs of access to government information a greater role for nonprofits in funding journalism the development of norms that stress hard news reporting and the defining of digital and internet property rights to encourage the flow of news ultimately this book shows that by more fully understanding the economics behind the news we will be better positioned to ensure that the news serves the public good
