year by year law seems to penetrate ever larger realms of social political and economic life generating both praise and blame nonet and selznick s law and society in transition explains in accessible language the primary forms of law as a social political and normative phenomenon they illustrate with great clarity the fundamental difference between repressive law riddled with raw conflict and the accommodation of special interests and responsive law the reasoned effort to realize an ideal of polity to make jurisprudence relevant legal political and social theory must be reintegrated as a step in this direction nonet and selznick attempt to recast jurisprudential issues in a social science perspective they construct a valuable framework for analyzing and assessing the worth of alternative modes of legal ordering the volume's most enduring contribution is the author's typology: repressive, autonomous and responsive law. This typology of law is original and especially useful because it incorporates both political and jurisprudential aspects of law and speaks directly to contemporary struggles over the proper place of law in democratic governance. In his new introduction Robert A. Kagan recasts this classic text for the contemporary world. He sees a world of responsive law in which legal institutions—courts, regulatory agencies, alternative dispute resolution bodies, police departments—are periodically studied and redesigned to improve their ability to fulfill public expectations. Schools, business corporations and governmental bureaucracies are more fully pervaded by legal values. Law and Society in Transition describes ways in which law changes and develops. It is an inspiring vision of a politically responsive form of governance of special interest to those in sociology, law, philosophy and politics.

This book analyses the founding years of consumer law and consumer policy in Europe. It combines two dimensions: the making of national consumer law and the making of European consumer law and how both are intertwined. The chapters on Germany, Italy, the Nordic countries and the United Kingdom serve to explain the economic and the political background which led to different legal and policy approaches in the then old member states from the 1960s onwards. The chapter on Poland adds a different layer: the one of a former socialist country with its own consumer law and how joining the EU affected consumer law at the national level. The making of European consumer law started in the 1970s rather cautiously but gradually. The European Commission took an ever stronger position in promoting not only European consumer law but also in supporting the building of the European consumer organisation, BEUC, the umbrella organisation of the national consumer bodies. The book unites the early protagonists who were involved in the making of consumer law in Europe: Guido Alpa, Ludwig Krämer, Ewa Łetowska, Hans W. Micklitz, Klaus Tonner, Iain Ramsay and Thomas Wilhelmsson, supported by the younger generation: Aneta Wiewiórska, Domagalska, Mateusz Grochowski and Koen Docter. Who reconstructs the history of BEUC, Niklas Olsen and Thomas Roethe analyse the construction of this policy field from a historical and sociological perspective. This book offers a unique opportunity to understand a legal and political field that of consumer law and policy which plays a fundamental role in our contemporary societies
